Workforce Solutions Greater Dallas Celebrates Grand Opening of New Irving South Workforce Center at Dallas College

DALLAS — Workforce Solutions Greater Dallas (WFSDallas) officially celebrated the grand opening of its brand-new Irving South Workforce Center, bringing vital career pathways and employer resources directly to the Irving community.

The ribbon-cutting ceremony officially launched the new center, which is strategically located inside the Dallas College Irving South campus. The event brought together community partners, local business leaders, and key regional officials, including Dallas County Judge Clay Lewis Jenkins, Dallas College Chancellor Dr. Justin Lonon, and City of Irving Mayor Al Zapanta, to celebrate the expansion of WFSDallas services.

Located at 1081 W. Shady Grove Rd., the WFSDallas facility is designed to connect local job seekers with sustainable career paths while providing employers with comprehensive business services and a centralized hub to recruit top-tier talent.

"Locating our new Irving South Workforce Center directly inside the Dallas College campus represents a strategic step forward in how we serve our community," said Laura Ward, President and CEO of WFSDallas. "Having our facility on-site allows us to build an immediate bridge between academic training and real-world employment. It gives students and residents instant, walk-in access to professional career advising, job placement resources, and support services right where they are learning."

As one of the fastest growing and most diverse cities in the region, Irving is home to a booming corporate economy that includes several Fortune 500 headquarters and thousands of small businesses. The launch of this new WFSDallas center provides critical, localized support to ensure Irving's talent pool keeps pace with the city's rapid economic expansion.
